DSpace Ambassador Program

The DSpace Ambassador Program is no longer active, and has been replaced by regional/national DSpace User Groups. See that User Group page for more information on User Groups in your area.

The DSpace Ambassador Program seeks to identify a DSpace user in every country or region who is willing to volunteer to be a point of contact for organizations just getting started. These Ambassadors help new or potential users with general questions about DSpace as well as providing guidance on additional resources available in the larger DSpace community.

Historical information on the program is available at DSpace Ambassador Program