

Community

Fedora is more than open source; it is community source software. Fedora is implemented and supported by a vibrant, collaborative, international community of stakeholders from a wide variety of organizations, including academic and cultural heritage organizations, universities, research institutions, university libraries, national libraries, and government agencies.

Within the Fedora community there are a variety of implementations, regional user groups, and special interest groups. More information on these topics can be found in the pages below.