Planning | Description | Requirements | UI Mockup

The screenshot displays the Cornell University Library catalog interface. At the top, the library's name and logo are visible, along with navigation links for 'My Virtual Collections', 'My Account', and 'Help'. Below this is a search bar with a dropdown menu set to 'All Fields' and a 'Search' button. A yellow callout box on the left says, 'You can click Back to catalog results to return to the previous page.' The main content area shows a book record for 'Psychology gets in the game: sport, mind, and behavior, 1880-1960' edited by Christopher D. Green and Ludy T. Benjamin, Jr. The record includes a book cover image, a table of contents, and various metadata fields such as format (Book), language (English), and ISBN. A red 'Request' button is present. A dropdown menu for 'Add to New Virtual Collection' is open, showing options like 'My Virtual Collection', 'Archery Technique', and 'Reading List'. A yellow callout box points to the 'Archery Technique' option, stating, 'Click Archery Technique to add this work to that virtual collection.'
