

Contributor License Agreements

Contributor License Agreements

LYRASIS desires that contributors of code or documentation to VIVO submit a signed individual Contributor License Agreement (CLA). This agreement clearly defines the terms under which intellectual property has been contributed to the program. This agreement will help us if there is a legal dispute regarding the software in the future.

Download LYRASIS CLA:

- icla.pdf
- icla-redline.docx (redline against Apache icla, for comparison purposes only)

In the case of an organization, such as a corporation or academic institution, that has assigned employees to work on the VIVO LYRASIS project, a Corporate Contributor License Agreement (CCLA) is available. This agreement may be used to contribute intellectual property that may be assigned as part of an employment agreement.

Download LYRASIS CCLA:

- cla-corporate.pdf
- cla-corporate-redline.docx (redline against Apache ccla, for comparison purposes only)

Submit completed CLAs to: vivo@lyrasis.org

Committer/Contributor	Organization	iCLA on file	cCLA on file
Dragan Ivanovic	University of Novi Sad, Serbia	✓	✗
Brian Lowe	Ontocale
Georgy Litvinov	Independent Researcher
Benjamin Gross	Clarivate
Ralph O'Flinn	Independent Researcher
Huda Khan	Cornell
William Welling	Texas A&M University		