

Moving Forward

Ideas for moving forward

Build a bridge with the Digital Humanities

- more visible
- THAT Camp (The Humanities And Technology Camp)

Bi-monthly web chat regarding tools had been proposed by Ricc Ferrante (see tools discussion)

- what strategies will ensure that momentum in this is maintained?
- time is a big issue - to learn new skills, keep abreast of current initiatives - professional development (line manager buy-in)
- could have 2 minute update and then main agenda item
- other people / institutions not at the unconference would like to participate

CurateCamp - could be another model to follow

We need to be more conscious of what each other are working on - willing to share things that are not fully baked

We agree this group is now a resource for discussion. We have built a community,

Could have regional event - eg New England Archivists

Goals - need to be realistic

Sustainability of tools created by projects ..

- but there is a cost - c$1000 per head

Identify and share best practices - best practices exchange

Major Takeways from the meeting

First step is to create a wiki page in these areas. Do some fact finding, identify individuals to contribute. Generate discussion in this area. Talk to other groups for information.

Curriculum development

- International Curation Education \(ICE\) Forum

- Catherine Stollar Peters to create wiki page

Digital Research communities

- Digital Humanities (Matt K) / open government, scientific data curators
- Digital Archives Twitter day - possibly during Archives Week (Gretchen)

Tools

- Courtney Mumma, Brad Westbrook and Mark Matienzo
- Erin O'Meara and Brad Westbrook to create wiki page

Policies and best practices

- could possibly look at placing on wiki
- Courtney Mumma and Catherine Hobbs - wiki page
