

DS-749 Allow for bitstream display order to be changed

At today's DCAT meeting we came to the consensus that allowing the bitstream display order to be changed by repository managers has broad appeal in the community. We have all experienced the desire to have this functionality. At this time we agree that while this does not have top/high priority, it is increasing from medium priority to medium-high priority. The driving impetus for its increase in priority status is centered on the increasing support we give to managing item records for data files. As our work to support data increases, this will become extremely important. I have posted this comment to the JIR A issue.
