

Clustering

Overview

This feature is undergoing development.

To support horizontal scalability use cases as well as geographic distribution, Fedora 4 can be configured as a cluster of application servers.

The available clustering configuration options cater to different use cases and systems. Consult the administrator's page on clustering for details.