

edit her personal information

When logged-in, the researcher or the administrator have an Edit Researcher Page button in the toolbar at the top of her public researcher page.

DSpace-CRIS 5.4.0 Demo Site

Preferred, name

Network LabView StatisticsEmail AlertRSS FeedEdit Researcher Page

ProfileORCIDOther

Profile

	Credit Name	Preferred, name	Full Name	DSpace-CRIS, Researcher	Vernacular Name	Some Additional, names
---	-------------	-----------------	-----------	-------------------------	-----------------	------------------------

clicking on it a simple web form is presented so that the information can be easily edit or hided from the public view with a tick or untick of the checkbox positioned beside the value

DSpace-CRIS, Researcher

Profile: ☐ Private ☒ Public

Source ID: 0000-0002-9421-192X Source Reference orcid

Created: 2016-01-25 19:30:29.137

Updated: Thu Feb 25 15:15:42 CET 2016

Use the checkbox to hide values from the public view

Edit Personal InformationORCID

Field with red label are mandatory field, metadata affiliation get values from other entities (OrgUnit) and from cerif semantic

Profile

Credit NamePreferred, name

Full NameDSpace-CRIS, Researcher

☒ Vernacular NameSome Additional, names

Check this box to delete (OR replace) the image from the server: ☐

Variants

When the label is red (such as “full name”), it means that the field is required; when the label is black, it is optional. . As far as affiliations are concerned, they must be inserted throw auto-compiling, that means that it is enough to write three characters to start a search in the data base and find the desired organization unit.

The tabs, boxes and fields available in edit do not necessary match the public layout, if needed they can be decoupled. Some tabs or fields can be also marked as available only to the administrators or conversely to the researcher as for instance the ORCID preference tab.