

Storage Delegation Project

Under Construction

This page is in the process of being edited. – DWD

Storage Delegation Project

The Storage Delegation Project is an overarching project for storage-related needs of open source content systems. It includes the Akubra Project as a subproject but is intended to support the wider scope of use cases found in the open source content community. A major part of this project is a collaboration between DSpace and Fedora Commons.

An important article framing this project may be found here.