Week of 2008-09-29

- We decided during our status meeting that we'd shoot for Oct 15th-17th timeframe for the 2.2.4/3.1 releases; Bill and I will be in Cambridge meeting with DSpace folks much of this week.
- I gave an update on Akubra Analysis of Existing Approaches at the architecture meeting.
- I moved the Akubra project infrastructure (wiki, svn, tracking, mailing lists) to Fedora Commons. This is the first project that will use our locally-managed Subversion installation. It's also the first to use Google Groups for the mailing lists (rather than Sourceforge.net).
- Unfortunately I didn't get a chance to review outstanding branches by Bill and Eddie...hopefully I'll be able to do that on and off while in Cambridge this week.