Minutes

4.7.4 Release

- Release candidate went out earlier this week
- Attendees encouraged to run through tests
- There have been many big fixes and improvements that have gone into master but have not come out in a point release
- 4.7.4 makes these available in a backwards-compatible way
- Need CLAW and Samvera tests
- Consolidating Spring configuration could be a breaking change
 - Need to pull this commit out and tag RC2
- Need better backwards compatibility testing
 - May involve existing data
 - May require an integration environment , sandbox style
 - We could automate the creation of resources in Fedora for this build process
 - Spin up a release candidate and feed it an import package
 - Provide recipes for different expectations/types of data

Fedora API alignment sprints

- There is a delta between the current implementation of Fedora and the spec, which we need to close with these sprints
- First sprint starts Sept. 11 for 2 weeks. Aaron Birkland will coordinate
- Second sprint starts Sept. 26 for another 2 weeks
- Interested folks are encouraged to sign up
- We will also support/encourage other implementations to implement the spec. Need 2 or more to validate the spec

The divide between 4.7-maintenance and master branches

- 4 commits in 4.7-maintenance and should be in master
- These are revert commits for breaking changes that messed up namespaces for existing implementations

Working toward next import/export release

- One ticket still in review
- Ben P is making good progress on version import, but we needn't wait on this issue to cut a release
 - We can always cut a new release when versioning import has been implemented
- Call for volunteers to do the release
 - Danny B volunteered
 - Jared will help

Adjusting the approach to serving /fcr:assets

- Issues with HTTPS
- Seems to be an NGINX problem
- Fixing this at the Fedora level would institutionalize a workaround
